BACKGROUND AND DISCUSSION

In the Spring of 2017, the Napa County Board of Supervisors launched an 18-month process to create a three-year strategic plan to guide and prioritize county actions. During 2017, the county leadership obtained feedback from the public through a variety of public meetings in Napa, Calistoga, Yountville, St. Helena, and American Canyon to determine what people value about Napa County; and their vision for Napa County over the coming years. Leaders of all County's departments met to discuss ways that Napa County could implement the public's vision of the future.

At a May 2017 public meeting, the Board of Supervisors discussed the county's strengths, weaknesses, opportunities, and threats. The Board also discussed their concerns and vision for Napa County in the following areas: diversity; housing; environment; safety; transportation; government; development; lifestyle; agriculture; and health and wellness. Efforts to complete a strategic plan were paused due to the 2017 wildfires.

In July of 2018, the Board of Supervisors appointed a Task Force comprised of County department heads to help lead the process of completing the three-year Napa County strategic plan. The members of this Task Force included the following individuals

Ron Abernethy, Public Defender
Danis Kreimeier, Director of Library Services and Community Outreach
Steve Lederer, Director of Public Works
David Morrison, Director of Planning, Building, and Environmental Services
John Robertson, Sheriff

Between July and December 2018, the Board of Supervisors, supported by the Task Force, Napa County Executive Office, dozens of County employees, and Bischoff Consulting, led a process that involved gathering of an unprecedented amount of public input. During the 18-month strategic planning period, County leadership provided opportunities for residents to provide their feedback in English and Spanish through a wide variety of methods to ensure broad public participation in all aspects of the planning process. More than 4,000 Napa County residents participated in the following ways to provide their input on the county's future:

An online survey with 2,712 respondents;
10 large group meetings—2 in each of the County’s 5 Supervisorial Districts (5 in 2017 and 5 in 2018);
30 issue-focused meetings;
17 community conversations and small group meetings convened by the Napa County Library;
Public comment during 6 meetings of the Board of Supervisors;
Individual interviews and small group meetings with key county and community leaders; and Unsolicited emails, phone calls, and comment cards submitted by members of the public.

County staff summarized the information gathered to create the County’s draft 2019-2022 Strategic Plan. Once adopted, the plan will be the road map the County will use to work collaboratively with our constituents to guide and shape the future of Napa County for the next three years. The plan is built on five pillars, identified through the extensive outreach process, which will drive our success. The pillars are:

Healthy, Safe, and Welcoming Place to Live, Work, and Visit
Livable Economy for All
Vibrant and Sustainable Environment
Collaborative and Engaged Community
Effective and Open Government

Each pillar contains a set of ambitious goals, supported by specific strategic actions. The draft Strategic Plan was presented to the Board and the Community on December 18. Based on the feedback received from both groups, the Plan has been revised. In addition, an initial Implementation Plan has been created to outline when the goals and associated actions will take place and who will lead and support the respective actions. The Plan outlines the commitment of the County to work collaboratively with our community members and partners toward achieving these goals, as well as its commitment to regularly share the results of our progress. The notes from the public meetings and the survey results are available on the County website at countyofnapa.org.

Message from the Napa County Board of Supervisors

This strategic plan is the map that we will use to work collaboratively with our constituents to guide and shape the future of Napa County for the next three years. During the past 18 months, county leadership engaged with over 4,000 community members to listen to public opinion about what people value about Napa County, what challenges we face, and what solutions we should implement to create an improved quality of life for all. By listening to those we serve, we learned that while many of us have different suggestions for how to achieve our goals, many are committed to the shared ideals of preserving our agricultural heritage and our expansive environment, while advancing the health, safety, and economic well-being of our families and future generations.

Our strategic plan will guide our decision-making and allow us to communicate a common message. It will enable us to set a clear direction with targeted priorities. We recognize that this plan will require our focus, prioritization of resources, and the dedication of all County staff to achieve these ambitious goals and are looking forward to embarking on this process with our community members to create a promising future for our County.

This plan builds on five pillars, identified through our extensive outreach process, which will drive our success:

- Collaborative and Engaged Community
- Healthy, Safe, and Welcoming Place to Live, Work, and Visit
- Livable Economy for All
- Vibrant and Sustainable Environment
- Effective and Open Government

We have identified a set of ambitious goals, each of which has specific strategic actions. Accomplishing these goals will depend on allocating sufficient person power and funding via the budget process in the context of all our other commitments, alignment with the County's legislative platform, as well as County staff working closely and collaboratively with our community members and partners.

We are proud of the robust community engagement that went into the development of this plan. We are grateful for many members of the public, representatives of businesses and community-based groups, and employees who participated in the public meetings, completed a survey, and/or provided valuable contributions through suggestions, articles, and research via email and voicemail. It was exciting to see the engagement of people who had little or no prior interaction with County government as well as those participants who contributed in the past, share their thoughts on ways to make this County a better place to live, work, and visit. We believe we heard very consistent input regarding goals, though widely divergent input as to how to achieve those goals.

We are eager to work together as a unified board to tackle the challenges we face in our County. We know that the path forward will require hard work and dedicated focus. We also know that the only way to achieve our goals is by working collaboratively with the community and by continuing to listen to those whom we serve. We want a Napa County where our families, community organizations, and businesses thrive; where everyone feels included and valued; and where we continue to experience the natural beauty that this special place provides. Please join us on this journey to create a positive, shared future.

Our Planning Process

2017

In the spring of 2017, the Napa County Board of Supervisors launched an 18-month process to create a three-year strategic plan to guide and prioritize county actions. During 2017, the County leadership obtained opinions from the public through a variety of public meetings in Napa, Calistoga, Yountville, St. Helena, and American Canyon on what people value about Napa County; and what their vision is for Napa County over the coming years. In addition, the leadership of the Napa County Library conducted community conversations and small group interviews to identify the future aspirations of Napa County residents. Then, the leaders of all County departments met to discuss ways that County government could implement the public's vision of the future.

During a May, 2017 public meeting, the members of the Board of Supervisors discussed the County's strengths, weaknesses, opportunities, and threats. They also presented their concerns and vision for Napa County in the following areas: diversity; housing; environment; safety; transportation; government; development; lifestyle; agriculture; and health and wellness.

Our Engaged Community

During the 18-month strategic planning period, county leadership provided opportunities for residents to provide their feedback in English and Spanish through a wide variety of methods to ensure broad public participation in all aspects of the planning process. More than 4,000 Napa County residents participated in the following ways to provide their input on the county's future:

- An online survey with 2,712 respondents
- 10 large group meetings—2 in each of the county's 5 Supervisorial Districts (5 in 2017 and 5 in 2018)
